Good-Bye Mrs. Woodbury

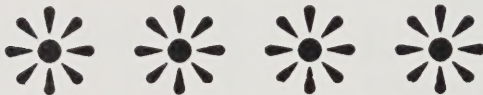

In Memory

Today there is an empty space in my heart. It is there because I lost someone I really cared about. That someone was my seventh grade English teacher, Mrs. Woodbury.

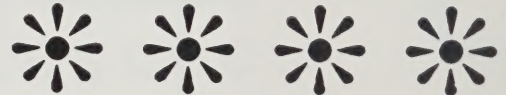

Mrs. Woodbury devoted her life to teaching. School became her life and her students became her children. She would do everything from making a joke to singing a song so her students could have fun and get an education all at once. Mrs. Woodbury would always encourage us to follow our dreams. The words, "I can't" were never accepted nor tolerated in her classroom.

Mrs. Woodbury taught her students so much; she taught such things that can't be found in any book; she taught from within her heart. Each and every day she'd come to class with such persistence, such strength, such love, and never with the absence of her "perfect" smile. I think we can all learn a little something from Mrs. Woodbury, something that's so deep we must search within our hearts and souls to find, something she instilled in each one of her students.

I know that Mrs. Woodbury always tried to live life to the fullest and I know she would want her family, friends, and students to do the same. I am going to try to fill the emptiness in my heart with all the wonderful memories left behind by Mrs. Woodbury; and I am going to do the best to succeed in life to make her proud.

-Katie Cronk

Dedication to Mrs. Pauline Woodbury

Dedication to Mrs. Woodbury

Mrs. Woodbury was more than a teacher, she was all the students' friend. She always tried to help any student in any way. I remember her bright smile and her good sense of humor. She went beyond what any teacher should do. It was a shocking and tragic day for all of her friends, students, and family when she was gone. It upset me because I knew I would never see her again. When she passed away, a piece of everyone of us went with her. We will all truly miss her and this final dedication is to make sure she never fades away.

Good-bye Pauline,

-Mitch Potts

Eleven years ago, Mrs. Pauline Woodbury was diagnosed with a brain tumor. For those eleven years, she continued her life as she had always done.

Mrs. Woodbury taught her students English with a smile and a keen sense of humor. She continued to take classes to improve her skills - always the better for her students. Each day she went to school after taking her many medications. Each day with an endless cup of coffee at hand, she struggled to keep her energy up. No one ever knew the exhaustion she felt at the end of the day. It was business as usual. With strength, courage, and determination she put aside the effects of her illness to be sure her family, friends, and students would not worry about her.

We who knew her were beneficiaries of Mrs. Woodbury's dedication, courage, strength, and perseverance. Mrs. Woodbury taught us English, but more importantly, she taught us the important lessons of life. Mrs. Woodbury taught us to appreciate every precious day of our lives. She taught us to pursue each day with all of our energy and will. She taught us to give the best we have to those around us.

Mrs. Woodbury touched many students and affected many lives. The endless stream of people who came to say "goodbye" at her wake and funeral were a testimony to the affect of one life well lived. And, in those who stood to honor her, Mrs. Woodbury will continue to inspire strength, courage, and devotion.
